BEYOND all question the most magnificent out-of-doors picture ever produced on the screen. A forest fire that pales into insignificance anything that has gone before—a ride for life in a frail canoe thru the mad whirl of the treacherous mountain rapids—a fight between two rivals for the hand of a girl—it will live long in the memories of all who see it.

IN AND AROUND THE CLUB

Saw Tom and Tex getting their "pumps" fixed on Saturday.

Noticed some of the old reliables on the "malted milk" wagon. It may have its merits too.

Saw the Sheriff of Snake Valley demonstrating the "upper-cut" to an interested audience on Saturday night. Did you observe the "Major" with his braces "at the trail." Oh no, he wasn't working—only playing 10L.

The new farmers have an increase in the family. No, no, Joe, this is the right column—it was a colt.

The latest addition to the Vulcan school of "leather pushers" is Young Jensen. According to competent judges this boy is a "comer" and with any luck should make them all step. He is only seventeen and will be seen at the next boxing show on May 4th.

Don Rowand the ex amateur welterweight champion of Canada, and general all-round athlete will be the third man in the ring on May 4th. Don should get a real welcome from the fans.

Take particular note of this boxing card, and then listen to the howls of our Calgary promoters.

If what we hear is correct Vulcan should have a good ball team this year with the addition of new material and all the old reliables on deck.

The first practice of the football team is on Monday and we would advise all players and others interested to be on hand and give the boys a good work-out.

Some of the boys went to the city last week in connection with income tax returns, oil leases and other documents. They were all completed.

If all the amateur gardeners realize their ambition this year we should have a rose carnival.

Mr. Howard Mills of the McIntyre Implement warehouse, motored to Claresholm Tuesday last on business.

The mayor and council of Vulcan desire to call the attention of all citizens to the fact that next week, April 29 to May 4, has been set aside as clean up week, and ask the assistance of all citizens in cleaning up vacant lots, yards and gardens, so that the town will present the best possible appearance during the coming spring.

The local golf course has been "burned off" and this is much appreciated by local enthusiasts who have already commenced the season's play. A green keeper will be steadily employed from the first of next month, and now is the time for intending golfers to get in touch with Mr. D.D. McQueen, the secretary of the local club.

Mr. and Mrs. Monds left on Monday night for the coast, where they expect to reside. They have been residents in town for some time, and many friends regretted to have them leave. ## WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Vulcan W. I. was held on Thursday of last week in the Parish hall.

The principal business was the election of officers for the coming year, and the result was as follows: President, Mrs. Dave McIntyre; First Vice-President, Mrs. Slayzen; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Markert; Secretary, Mrs. J. J. Shaw (re-elected); Treasurer, Mrs. L. H. Stack.

A dainty luncheon was served during the afternoon, the hostesses being Mrs. Slayzen and Mrs. Shaw.

Mrs. Brunton gave a splendid talk to the ladies, taking for her subject "Religion—a form of character."

A report of the Conference at Medicine Hat was read by Mrs. A. T. Martin in the absence of Mrs. Smith the delegate, who was unable to be present.

A prize offered to the lady who attended the meetings and answered the roll call the greatest number of times was won by Mrs. F. Clark who had 14 points. Mrs. Parslow and Mrs. Monds came second with 13 points each.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostesses Mrs. Gold, Mrs. Sheffield, and Mrs. Fenton.

The Mido dance last week was well attended by the young people of Vulcan and district. All voted an enjoyable evening.

FORTHCOMING FIGHT

The local branch of the Canadian Legion is staging a really well-balanced boxing card on May 4th, and nearly all the contestants are well known to the local fans.

Two of the most promising boys in the country will open the show, viz: Dannie Campbell and Harry Ferguson—they will meet in a four round bout.

Theron Vaughn, bantam champion, will meet a good boy in young Witting from Lomond; Theron needs no introduction as he is, without a doubt, the best boy of his weight in the province.

Dannie Jackson, brother of our own Frankie, will be up against tough one when he meets Kid Berg from Edmonton, but the local fans know that Edmonton will have to be good to stop young Dannie.

The semi-wind-up will bring Billy Patterson of Lomond and Jack Jensen a new arrival from Calgary, together Billy is well known to the local fans, and Jensen may be seen training with Frankie Jackson almost any night at the gymnasium.

The main bout will be for the junior welterweight championship of Alberta, and will be between Jimmie Cameron of Edmonton and Frankie Jackson of Vulcan; this will be their second meeting, the first one having resulted in a draw. Cameron has been going big lately, and just the other day he stopped Sailor Burke of Vancouver in seven rounds, and Burke holds a decision over the clever Hughie Fraser of Kimberley, B.C. but Frankie has not been idle since he fought Cameron last. He gave Eddie Edwards a sound trimming here the other night and those who saw the bout are of the opinion that the local boy is improving each time he goes in the ring. Jackson has good offers from Eastern Canada and the United States, and it is more than likely that this may be his last appearance in the local arena.

The referee will be E. J. Don Rowland who was welterweight champion of Canada in 1923—he is well known as an impartial official, and has been a popular referee in Winnipeg and Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson and family motored to Claresholm on Sunday to visit relatives.

A number of the basketball girls accompanied the boys to Blackie on Wednesday night, April 17th, to see the game played between Blackie and Vulcan teams. Those who went were Misses Jessie Packwood, Belle Flood, Billy Thompson, Loreen McKay and other non-members accompanied them. The boys had a little hard luck, but just wait till the Blackie team comes here to play the return game and our boys will show them.

UNITED CHURCH NEWS

Divine service next Sunday morning and evening at 11 and 7:30 o'clock. The senior choir will motor to Berwynwater on Sunday afternoon and conduct a song service at 2 o'clock, and at Red Cross at 3:30 and return to Vulcan for a young people's rally in the United Church at 7:30 p.m. All are invited to these services.

The Sunshine Mission Band will put on a programme and tea Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Come and give the little tots encouragement in their good work.

IMMORAL LITERATURE

The hectic discussions on the "I'm Alone" case, have produced the argument that Canada should co-operate with United States in stemming the flow of Canadian liquor across the border. They consider that Canada by permitting the American citizen to get Canadian liquor is undermining his morale. There may be truth in the argument. But how about the reverse side. Canadian youth is being corrupted quite as surely by the flood of low and demoralizing literature which pours into Canada from across the line. The highest types of American journal and the lowest, alike have free entry. But which is more widely read? Ask any news-dealer.

The National Council of Education in Vancouver, in discussing this alarming influence on Canadian youth chose at random a Vancouver newspaper, and by means of moving pictures presented to the Council the publications sold and the relative sales value. The evidence was sufficiently shameful. Many of the magazines and newspapers having greatest sales featured immorality, sensuality, violence and crime.

Editorial writers through Canada are urging that the government take instant action in stemming this flood of literature before national spirit and all regard for honor and ideals become blurred.

The Hanna Herald asks pertinently "Are we to continue to allow a situation infinitely more important to Canada than the sinking of a hundred 'I'm Alone's' to continue without official attention? Ottawa should heed the handwriting on the wall, lest this become a national issue, overthrowing a government so unprincipled of national safety."

AVIATION

At the end of 1928, there were three times the number of planes in operation in Canada than there were at the beginning of the year, and nearly five times as many pilots. Air harbors had doubled. The prophecy is that in 1930, Canada will have 1000 planes and 1000 pilots to fly them.

The Flying Clubs for the year have shown activity, the aircraft issued by the government in constant use and average daily flying time high.

Sixteen clubs have been granted planes. These operate thirty-four aircraft, twenty-nine of government issue and five provided by themselves.

A British firm making light planes for clubs and individual use, delivered sixty-two planes in 1928, and at the beginning of 1929 had more than this number on order. A coast to coast air mail linking up, is definitely in sight.

United States and Canada have united aircraft interests, in the establishment of a large factory on the outskirts of Montreal. Another factory will also build probably at Montreal for the manufacture of planes for Canadian use. It is expected that these planes will be in demand also in other parts of the British Empire.

Those who argue for a Central Bank in Canada will find it hard to convince Canadians that the Federal Reserve Board has handled the American credit situation as well as Canadian banks have handled our own.

OUR LOCAL STORES

One feature of the town, of which we may well be proud, is the shop window display. Up and down the streets, the windows succeed each other, each presenting attractive goods, skillfully arranged. It is apparent that window display is a matter of careful study with local merchants.

It will be remembered that in those good old days which we so often recall, the store windows of the average small town were a drooping, doleful spectacle—begrimed and uninviting, featuring the perennial sack of flour, the faded coats, the rusty wood burner.

What a different attitude is shown by the modern business man. His wares are arranged with regard for the season's activities, for harmony of color and general effect. He is ever alert for current demand, and this important method of advertising his wares must require no small amount of thought and talent.

Locally, there is scarcely a window that does not draw the admiration of the most casual eye. And each window is eloquent of the experience that has gone into purchasing; the learning of what to buy, and when, and how; the never-ending gamble of gauging the errant unaccountable public taste; the secret of quick turnover.

The commodities of the wide world are on display in windows, on counters and on shelves. A crop failure in China, a frost in California, a blight in Italy, have all reaction in our local shops. Freight charges must be studied. New products must be risked. On every shelf in every store lie stories that may be followed, like links of a chain half round the globe.

These are the days of relentless competition when the best that a man can give in intelligence and experience must be turned into his business.

The alert and successful management of local business places, has frequently been commented upon by visitors and travellers in the town. It is well for townspeople to give consideration to the ceaseless effort which is required to build up and maintain this enviable "outside" reputation.

HOW "OLD LANG SYNE" SHOULD BE SUNG

St. Mary's Journal-Argus
Many people like to sing that old favorite, "Auld Lang Syne" at the conclusion of a banquet or social affair, but it is seldom done correctly. After the first verse there is usually a bewildering grasping of hands, no one knowing exactly when to do it. The verse beginning "Then here's a hand, my trusty friend and gie's a han' o' thine," is of course the time for the hearty grasping of hands. Now let's see you do it right next time!

A British bishop was considerably upset and confused to his bed, when he received a note one Friday morning from the vicar of the village in his diocese: "My Lord—I regret to inform you of the death of my wife. Can you possibly send me a substitute for the week end?"

THE AFTERMATH

Hon. Winston Churchill who recently completed "The Aftermath," the last of five volumes on The Great War, has drawn from critics much praise as a master of dramatic, gripping English prose. Some of his epigrams are priceless; some of his pen pictures classics. Thus, the last few strokes of his sketch on Lenin: "His weapon logic; his mood opportunist. His sympathies could and wide as the hangman's noose. His purpose to save the world; his method to blow it up. Absolute principles, but readiness to change them. Apt at once to kill or learn. . . . A good husband; a gentle guest; happy, his biographers assure us, to wash up the dishes or dandle the baby; as mildly amused to stalk a capercailzie as to butcher an Emperor."

PLANTING TREES

"Arbor Day" was born in the prairie part of Eastern Nebraska. Our great empty plains have great opportunity to profit from using the day for the purpose for which it is annually proclaimed a provincial holiday. In reality it is not a holiday, but a day set aside for specialized labor on the part of every citizen—the planting and care of trees.

Experience at the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden, Manitoba, shows that each season some improvement may be introduced in Arbor Day activities. In digging trees, three persons with sharp spades or shovels may work together to advantage. After cutting the roots at a foot or more radius from the tree and removing a trench of soil, then the three spades driven deeply down and inwards, the young trees or shrub may usually be neatly and efficiently lifted by working in unison in three prying, "one, two, three." This pinches off the top root and raises the specimen with but small ripping of roots and bark.

Trees set in the open places, where the air movements have free play tend to be blown toward the east by the prevailing winds. "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined," and good practice is to set the specimen pointing from ten to twenty degrees into the west, or if it be an apple tree or Mountain Ash, it may be slanted southwest so that protection from sun scald of the trunk be increased.

Transplanted evergreens may well be given temporary shelter by shading with an old sack, or piece of burlap, supported by stakes on the south west side of the specimen for three or four weeks.

Evergreens are expensive, and carry their foliage during this major operation which, in their instance, is performed without the advantage of nature's winter sleep of full dormancy, and this extra consideration of temporary shade is a wise and profitable expenditure of labour. Each season many costly specimens are needlessly lost because no shade is given during the interim before their roots begin again to function freely and establish the plant in its new home.

All trees should be planted before new leaf growth commences. If one transplants a larch tree when green leaves are showing, the only results will be disappointment and personal exercise. This latter comes in two phases—the planting and later removing the corpse.

NOT ONE MAN OR NATION

Who invented the automobile? The notion that the inventor was Henry Ford or Thomas Edison is widely spread in the continent. But in Germany they give the credit to Gottlieb Daimler and Karl Benz, the latter of whom just died. France recognized Panhard and Lavassor as the inventors, and there was an Englishman named Butler, who built an international combustion engine in 1885. The truth is that the motor car had no single inventor, but was the product of a half a dozen inventors, lacking any of which the motor car would not have come into existence.

GETTING HABIT TOO YOUNG

It is common knowledge that cigarette smoking is prevalent among Aylmer school boys of from 10 to 14 years of age. So much has been said and written of the physical injury of this habit to those of tender years, that these boys must know of the injustice they are doing to their bodies. But where do they secure their supply of cigarettes? The law does not permit dealers to sell to these boys, yet they seem to have no difficulty in securing a supply. Someone is breaking the law, and it is quite time that steps be taken to find out who it is. Any dealer that would sell cigarettes to boys of the age mentioned should, in addition to being made to pay the penalty, have his license cancelled permanently.—Aylmer Express.

Wm. Georgeson, a Calgary pioneer, died on April 17.

TEACHING SUCCESS

With proper training, anyone of ordinary capacity may become successful, says Roger W. Babson, the eminent business and statistical expert, who believes that success comes as the result of any magic gift, he does suggest a simple formula, which sounds easy but is sometimes hard to put into practice. It is this: "Do what you don't want to do when you don't want to do it." Going farther, Mr. Babson does not believe that the success of one portion of the population depends upon the failures of another portion. He says: "The Russia idea of equality is that all shall equally lose; our idea of equality is that all shall equally win." Mr. Babson is a living illustration of his own creed. An apparently hopeless invalid as a young man, he determined to get well and did. He is now the head of a great statistical organization, with branches in 26 cities; and is an officer in numerous large business enterprises. He did the things that were hard to do, many of which he doubtless did not like to do. And thereby won great success.

THE TOURIST TRADE

It is hard to realize that within a few short years the tourist trade of Canada has reached such proportions that the sum expended by tourists, is second only to the amount received from the wheat crop. The income from the wheat crop heads seventy of the country's industries. The tourist trade is second.

Plans are being made, the breadth of the country to attract tourists, Alberta has its full share of points of interest which have received publicity. The news of its mountain scenery, its climate, its facilities for outdoor sport, its oil fields, its "last west" atmosphere is being broadcast. The town of High River is one of the most widely known of Alberta's centres, and should share richly in the harvest from tourists. What can be done locally, to attract the travelling public, and having attracted it, to provide "features" which will remain in the memory as distinctive of High River.

This is timely notice: "Here lies the remains of Bill McPhetie; he tried to drive and kiss his sweetie."

WHENCE COME THEY

It was remarked this week by an observer, that there are certain brief periods in the spring and fall, in most western towns, which are rather sad. These are the days before threshing and before spring work commences, when laborers haunt the streets, waiting patiently for employment to open up. Round the station and on Main Street these pilgrims gather, waiting for the weather to break right. Sometimes in groups, often alone; sometimes in conversation, often silent; sometimes cheerful, more often grim and stoical. Onlookers, as the tide of steady employment hurries by.

Who are they? Where do they come from? Have they homes and families? Is there some one waiting to hear from them? Are they Canadians in the making, struggling for foothold? Do they carry kindly thoughts of us? How little most of us know about them. We look, and looking, pass them by, hurrying to our good meals, our warm beds, our homes. To most of us, they are just laborers.

Here is the plain story of one of them—a very simple, unheroic story, yet possibly more typical than we realize. He is a big kindly looking fellow, with wife, family of five children and homestead 90 miles north of Edmonton. Every spring for the last few years, he has hit out south with the first break-up, in order to make a stake to carry the family through the winter. Last year he signed on near Blackie about the middle of April, and was paid off the 15th of November. He had $495 to take home for farm necessities, taxes, provisions clothes. This spring about three weeks ago, he started south, taking from his diminished hoard enough only for railway fare to Edmonton. There he travelled from house to house sharpening tools and lawn mowers till he made his fare to Calgary. In Calgary, he did the same, pausing only long enough to get fare for High River, with a little extra. He was pressing south to be in time for the season. Arriving here, snow and frost confronted him, with everything at a standstill. Again he brought his simple equipment into service, going from house to house sharpening tools. He had an unconsciously persuasive salestalk and has done very well. By this time he has probably landed a good season's job.

His outlook is reasonable and uncomplaining. He wants to start his children well, and he warms to the thought of his luck in having the school only a mile from the homestead. His wife is a thrifty Frenchwoman, tending the six cows and carrying the burdens of the farm work while he is away. His wistful dream is to have enough ahead that he can stay home with his family and farm his own land. Next year he may make it.

His is just a story of simple pioneer effort, yet is anyone carrying on in any more worthy fashion? And outside of his employer, possibly, is there any one to cheer him with a friendly encouraging word? There may be many other laborers with much the same story.

Does our general attitude toward these men lack anything in kindness? Has the phrase "brotherhood of man" any application in this instance?

WHEAT POOL NEWS

In an address given before the Lethbridge Board of Trade, E.E. Eisenhauer, Wheat Pool fieldman, gave some information of particular interest to the business men of Lethbridge and surrounding towns. In the Lethbridge railway division where the Pool had 31 elevators the surplus earnings returned to Pool members last fall amounted to $205,586. Within a radius of 65 miles of Lethbridge the excess earnings returned to the farmers amounted to over $145,000. Pool farmers at Coaldale received over $10,000; Warner, over $11,000; Barons over $8,000.

Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited changed its name to the Alberta Wheat Pool, on Monday, April 15th. This change was made largely because the more lengthy official name has never been used, and the Wheat-Pool has been the recognized name of the organization. This applies to foreign countries as well as Canada, and it is doubtful if people in England, outside those who do direct business with the organization, would recognize Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers as the Wheat Pool.

Provost Pool elevator has passed Foremost in total handlings from the 1928 crop. Foremost led the Alberta Pool list for some time, but the last official report from the elevator department gave Provost handlings of 368,000 and Foremost 367,000.

In a recent talk given over the Alberta Pool radio, O. Z. Buchanan, Western sales manager for the Wheat Pool, denied the published report that the Pool was tied up with a Japanese importing firm and could not sell wheat direct to China. Mr. Buchanan stated that the Wheat Pool was not tied up with any one concern in the Orient and sold considerable quantity of wheat to various Japanese mills this year direct.

SAFETY FIRST

If your cattle lane crosses the highway, why not erect a sign down the road which reads: "DANGER—300 Feet to—CATTLE DRIVE." Such a sign erected on both sides of the drive along the highway will warn motorists to have their car under control; and may save you both cattle and litigation.

The McCormick-Deering Harrow Plow gives your tractor a new opportunity to save time and money for you. Hook your tractor onto one of these plows and you have a fast working outfit that cannot be beaten.

It would be much easier to love your fellow man if he didn't honk his horn to get by and then slowdown.

"ACA NADA"

Do you know how Canada got its name? Well, we can't vouch for the authenticity of this, but you'll have to agree it sounds reasonable. There is a legend that the northern shores of Canada were first visited by Spanish adventurers in search of spoils. This was several centuries before Columbus. They were disappointed with the appearance of the country when they finally skirted its coastline and exclaimed "Aca Nada" meaning "It is barren." In some way the name clung and was subsequently adopted by the French who settled the country later. But Canada of today is as far from being barren, as Greenland is from being green.

Farming is the most important industry in the world, and supplying the tools that make farming profitable is nothing to be ashamed of, either.

Going into a restaurant the other day we saw a rather large girl just stuffing herself. But that was only natural, since she was a taxidermist's daughter.

Age is something to brag about when talking about your wine, but forget when it comes around to your birthday.

SAFE AND SOUND?

EAST COMES WEST

Mary Roberts Rinehart has an article in a current magazine on "Dude Ranches" which while it is written of the conditions in the Western States, is a faithful picture of an enterprise which has commenced, and will likely grow to greater proportions in our vicinity.

"Every family vacation is a compromise, and the dude ranch appears to be the best for the most people. Summer resort life of the conventional sort has largely died. It was found largely on the idea of buying pleasure and much of the pleasure was meretricious. It's theory and practice were wrong for younger folk especially. Their days and nights became an orgy of feverish amusement and spending.

The western ranch provides plenty to do, but directs activities into normal channels. They cannot spend. They are too weary to stay up all night and it is odd how quickly and happily they adjust themselves.

Actually what the dude ranch is trying to do is to preserve as long as possible something of the old west. Partly sentiment, partly dollars and cents. It is beginning to need the tourist trade. And it is not easy to do. The West itself wants to forget its past. The Easterner is insistent on seeing a West which the West is trying to forget. He wants his cowboy in chaps not overalls. He is disappointed at finding paved streets in towns, straw hats and motor cars. He is indifferent to the civilization which has been worried with such travail out of the barren country, and search for the crude living of the West.

To meet this demand dude ranches try to combine comfort and atmosphere. They just manage and no more to persuade their cowboys to wear everyday, the outfits they ordinarily would keep for stampedes. They build rough log cabins, but have bath houses close at hand. There are horses and saddles galore, but the horses are gentle.

A dude ranch means riding. It does not imply horsemanship. It means learning to sit in a broad safe saddle with large stirrups and to learn to communicate one's desire to the horse. "It is this riding which is the secret of the development of the dude ranch. Like golf, it combines exercise with interest.

Most dude ranches offer fishing. Sometimes the fishing is at the front door, sometimes a few miles off. But every trout fisherman knows that good fishing is always a few miles off. And in the fall there is usually shooting. Most dude ranches lie in game country to adjust themselves to the pleasures of the autumn.

One trouble in the great success of this western trek is that the West is afraid of being patronized. The truth is, that it is now the West which is patronizing the East. The old scorn of the tenderfoot still lives and will not die. The West is the luring land of the great open spaces where, as Eddie Castor says, "men are men and women are glad of it."

Like the American West, the Canadian West is breaking on the East in a new light. We are emerging from the hardships of pioneering and seek to retain in a double grip the charms of the old, and the comforts of the new. To a great extent we are successful. Increasingly, Eastern Canadians are being attracted to the grandeur of the West.

In the High River district, we are in a particularly fortunate position to share largely in this new trend. We are at the gateway of unequalled mountain scenery of fish and game country, of the Prince of Wales ranch, and in addition we are adjacent to one of the great oil fields of the world. How can we make the most of our location?

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A man arrested, charged with stealing a horse and buggy. This would not be so strange, only that it happened at Ford City.

The gentry in Canadian cities who sing the Red Flag are reminded that there is a vacancy in Russia caused by the removal of Mr. Trotsky.

"Oddly enough, Lord Egmont feels it cold here," says an English newspaper. What do they know of Alberta who only England know? "Oddly," indeed!

Facts must sometimes doubt their own importance when they see how frequently they're ignored.

He bought a piano, a car and a radio outfit on the instalment plan. Now go on with the story.

He hits her up to seventy miles, Or, sixty-five, at any rate.

He boasts about it to his friends. But never to the magistrate.

Scotland Yard is looking for "Chicago Jim" who is described as an Englishman and leader of a gang of mail-robbers in Chicago. That cannot be correct. Mayor Thompson would never allow an Englishman to achieve such honors in Chicago.

Millions of dollars were lost through heavy rains in Ontario and Michigan. If you think a six inch drain pipe is large enough, make it twelve and save money by accommodating the water at its peak.

Water at its peak develops a pique when its right of way is contested, and the result generally is rough work at the cross-roads.

Rigid economy demands that a torrent in spate be given the right of way. It will have its own way anyway.

PAINT IN THE SPRING

Springtime is the season of revelation and revival. Nature, stripped of winter's kindly covering stands forth harsh and unadorned. But not for long. Warmth steals through the air a gentle haze of green envelops the woods. Soon leaves take shape, green grass pushes its way upward. And almost overnight the great spring revival in nature is underway. A renewal of beauty.

How far behind nature lag the works of man. They too, in the spring are revealed in all their nakedness. Houses, streets, fences, stand forth in uncompromising light. But unlike nature, they are at the mercy of man's negligence. Those impromptu burials of the winter—discarded machinery, boxes, tin cans lie exposed, the harvest of man's winter's carelessness.

Nature cries shame, and the helpless victims of man's indifference cringe before her. In so far as is possible an effort should be made to swing the town into harmony with spring's revival. Fences should be repaired, streets cleaned, buildings painted.

An unpainted home is an unloved home. It stands dejected, forlorn, when a little effort might transform the humblest place into a self-respecting shelter for the family. A new coat of paint bolsters the self respect of a building. It stands forth proud, and reliant. It tones up the owner's self-respect.

Not only that, but in these days of rapid travel, when hundreds of strangers—possibly prospective investors or prospective citizens—pass through the town, nothing gives such an atmosphere of permanence and prosperity to a centre, as freshly painted buildings and uncluttered streets. On every individual who passes through High River, leaves a memory, pleasant or otherwise. It is the privilege of every citizen to help surround the town with an atmosphere of self-respect and well-being.

Nature is doing her part to create beauty around us. Man should follow suit. Paint will do it.

RULE BY GUN IN U. S.

Joseph De King, an ordinary peaceable citizen of Aurora, Ill., had in his home a gallon of wine that he made himself. Officers raided his house and before the raid was over Mrs. De King was shot dead. Mr. De King beaten into insensibility and one of the officers who had killed the mother was shot dead by a 12-year-old son. The New York Telegram, one of the best American papers, in referring to the raid, says: "If the Aurora tragedy is sanctioned by the reformers who now make our laws and legalize any method for their enforcement, any resident of New York who has an enemy can be summarily dealt with after this fashion. Your enemy may go before an officer, swear that he thinks and believes that 'so and so' is harboring liquor in his home; and without further ado a gang of dry raiders may be dispatched to your house, armed with tear bombs, shot guns and the glow of righteousness, secure in the belief that they will be many to cry huzzah if they do not stop short of murdering you and your family should you resist their entry. How long will America tolerate the usurping of the privacy of her homes by the madmen of moral reform?"

The most critical could not fail to have been pleased with the picture "The Mysterious Lady" which was presented at the Highwood Theatre on Friday and Saturday. It was an absorbing story, beautifully presented, and many congratulated Mr. Edlund after the performance on the choice of picture. While titles are a poor guide to go by in the movie world, yet the actors are usually an indication of the type of picture. Greta Garbo and Conrad Nagel who starred in "The Mysterious Lady," are names to be kept in mind as a pretty certain guarantee of excellence especially if the picture has a European setting. On Monday and Tuesday evenings, Clara Bow drew her fans to "The Fleet's In." This was good comedy, with some very snappy captions.

The Saskatchewan Farmer says that one million tons of flax go to waste every year on the Western prairies and the editor declares that this wasted straw if manufactured and sold would bring in as much money as the entire western wheat crop. Yet how can we conserve it profitably?

The Federal Reserve is designed to check speculation by raising the rate on call loans thus dropping the price of stocks, cleaning up a lot of marginal accounts and compelling the same speculators, or others, to start off again, on the same career, and with the same result. The people who are injured by this are people who never heard of the Federal Reserve. Every body agrees that some curb is necessary, and the power to increase rates seemed good, but it will not work much longer. It has been defied by one New York bank which handed out twenty-five million dollars at the high interest rate and will be thwarted again by other money that may be attracted to New York by high rates or call loans. The people who start fires do not accomplish much by joining the brigade, when the fire threatens to become a conflagration.

NEW MARMON CAR

Its introduction sweeping aside automobile precedent, the new Marmon built Roosevelt presented to the Canadian motoring public in a gigantic coast to coast announcement by G. M. Williams, President of the Marmon Motor Car Company reveals the first straight eight ever produced to sell below $1500 in Canada.

The Roosevelt is the culmination of a development predicted by automobile authorities for years and now achieved for the first time by Marmon as a result of its rapid and advanced progress in the eight cylinder field.

With a price of, less than $1500 in Canada, the Roosevelt is on display for the first time at Pete Smith's Motors Ltd., Calgary. The initial showing of the new car is augmented by a display of the other two Marmon lines of straight-eights, the New Series 68 which sells at $2210 and the New Series 78 which sells at $2975. Prices f.o.b. Windsor, Ont.

First Roosevelt shipments from the Marmon factory were composed chiefly of 5 passenger sedan models although the complete line includes in addition to the sedan, a collapsible coupe with rumble seat and four passenger Victoria coupe. The sedan is priced at $1422, the Victoria coupe, standard coupe and the collapsible slightly higher. All models are available with de luxe wire wheel equipment at moderate additional cost.

According to the company's announcements the Roosevelt fairly bristles with new features of design, utility and performance that stamp it as one of the greatest values on the automobile market. Aside from its eight-in-line engine of the most modern design, the car has special provisions for easy riding, a patented Marmon high frequency oscillating modulator which completely eliminates torsional vibration, "single button" steering column control, thermostat cooling and full force feed lubrication.

MEIGHEN SEES OIL FIELD

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Premier of Canada, made a visit to Turner Valley, Friday, accompanied by P. Burns and officials of the Imperial Oil. He arrived in Calgary from Vancouver Friday morning and left the same night for the East. Already heavily interested financially in Turner Valley, Mr. Meighen was greatly impressed with the progress that had been made in the field, but on his return declined from commenting, smilingly making the remark that other people could talk about the field just as well as he could. On his return before he left for the East, Mr. Meighen was entertained by Mr. Burns at his home. Mr. Meighen has several interests in Turner Valley, being a director of Lowery Petroleum and a shareholder in Southwest Petroleum, Foothills, Royalty and Dalhousie.

PEOPLE see the Roosevelt—they drive it—they compare. The car itself answers all questions save one—that question is: "How soon can I get one?"

The more one goes into the facts, and from every angle, the more apparent it becomes that no car in the world gives so much at or anywhere near $1500. Study these interesting features:

NEWS OF INTEREST

It takes 1500 nuts to hold an automobile together, but it only takes one to scatter it all over the landscape.

Hon. O. L. McPherson states that the province of Alberta is prepared to complete the highway into Jasper Park this summer. The province is asking for ten mile stretch of the old C.N.R. roadbed for new work. It is said the Dominion Government will complete its share of the highway which will connect Edmonton with Jasper Park.

There is a drive on in Ontario to scrap the old fashioned stables that adorn the country church yards. The comment made is that there was never any sacred associations connected with church sheds. A whole lot of useful trading and a good many thrifty business deals were no doubt consummated in these buildings. But no hallowed associations! No!

In point of turn over the Canadian Wheat Pools represent the largest business in Canada. The membership is 145,000 actual farmers in Alberta. The gross annual turnover is more than $380,000,000. The twelve Pool terminal elevators have a combined capacity of 33,606,000 bushels. The Pool elevators could hold at one time, about one fifth of the normal western wheat production. The organization owns and operates 1417 elevators with a combined capacity of 52,560,000 bushels.

LEGION ESSAY CONTEST

To be explicit, at no date up to the Armistice, did the Americans have one half the men in the face of the enemy as the British.

Guns? Eighteen months after the Americans declared war, they only possessed a limited number of heavy guns and merely two hundred and nine, seventy-five m.m. of their own manufacture. England had ample reason to necessitate the speed of production of her artillery however.

Air? Only six hundred and twenty eight American-made machines ever reached the front. British De Havilland models, as opposed to the twenty two thousand English-made, English owned machines in use.

Tanks? America's thirty-six heavy tanks and two hundred and eight tanks were British and French, respectively. The first American made tank to reach France arrived a month after Armistice.

Navy? The main contributions of the American navy consisted of transporting American troops to France.

Thus, it is plain criticism is superfluous but we would suggest General Reilly adopt George Washington's policy.

It's quite true, you'll now agree, that you can always "Live and Learn."

HARRIET DISCHER.

SPORTS FOR ALL

Looking over the front page of this issue causes us to wonder how many of our friends will designate this as an "Athletic Number"

We have items concerning basketball, football, boxing, and the newly constituted Vulcan Amateur Athletic Association.

For this we make no apology because the younger folks who find enjoyment and recreation in one or more of the various branches of sport will thereby better qualify for their duties as citizens in the not very distant future.

Our fellow citizens of Vulcan will make no mistake if they watch with interest the various sporting events that are taking place right among us, and give to the development and maintenance of sport in this town such assistance as may be possible.

For the whole of Canada, the average wages per month of farm help during the summer season of 1928 were for men $40 and for women $24. With the value of board placed at $23 for men and $20 for women, the wages would amount to $63 and $44. In Western Canada wages ran for men and women in Manitoba $61 and $41; respectively; in Saskatchewan $69 and $47; in Alberta $72 and $49; and in B. C. $77 and $52.

NOTICE To Creditors and Claimants

DATED this 24th day of April, 1929.
L. H. STACK,
Solicitor for JOS. McDONALD,
Apl25-13 The Executor.

IS SPREADING OUT

The Calgary Power Co. has now almost completed with the distribution systems at New Drayton, Warner and Milk River. The line to serve the above places is under construction and it is anticipated that service will be available to patrons about the first of June. No doubt the advent of electricity in these towns will be much appreciated by the people and when lights are turned on it will prove a red letter day to all concerned.

In making comparisons with regards to the use of electricity in High River for power and light purposes, it is interesting to observe that when the town disposed of its power plant to the Calgary Power Co. in 1926 the yearly output at the switchboard was 225,000 k.w.hrs. The output in 1928 was 450,000 k.w.hrs. making an increase of 225,000 k.w.hrs. in less than two years and a half. This increase was no doubt due to the cheaper rates being charged under the new management, and the rate for power being 6c per k.w.h.

A factory in Bruce County, Ontario which established a fine name for its excellent baby carriages, is now converted into a liquor warehouse. Is this a sign of the trend of the times in Bruce County, that sacred spot.
